As another election year comes around, our nation will be facing more than just its usual problems, such as safe decent housing and adequate health for all, but also the threat domestic terrorism. After the events of 9/11 the entire nation must look at itself in a whole new light, and this, of course includes our leaders in Congress. An economic slow down combined with more funds being directed to the war on terrorism will put a strain on already tight federal budget. Housing and community development advocates will be more hard pressed than ever to convince our elected leaders that our programs still matter, in fact they are more important than ever, especially the need for more affordable housing. This year's Symposium will address the issues of the Millennial Housing Commission Report, USCM's National Affordable Housing Policy, the Impact of the 2002 Census on CDBG and HOME, HUD's ConPlan Streamlining Initiatives and a Professional Development Session that will really knock your socks off. And of course we will select the 2003 National Community Development Week Poster art. You won't want to miss this!!

Room Reservations at the Pointe Hilton Resort at Squaw Peak must be made early. Our room block is small, we have allotted 40 rooms for this event. We are also conducting a CDBG Basics course on Monday-Wednesday, September 23-25, 2002 before the Symposium. The rate for the hotel rooms is $95.00 per night for both events, the Symposium and the CDBG Basics Course. The cut off date for this rate is August 31, 2002. Please make your reservations directly with the hotel. If you register by any other means than through our room-block, your room will not be counted toward our block. The fee for the Symposium is $400.00 per registrant and $100 per guest.
